Caratteristiche

- Spectra Comp™: Most bass players know that integrated compressors generally don't sound that good. A regular compressor tends to be dominated by the lower string, but Staccato'51's SpectraComp™ technology allows virtually 'per string' multi-band compression that evens out the compression across all strings - Rocco adds a touch of SpectraComp™ to tighten up his sound.
- TubeTone™ : TubeTone™ emulates all characteristics of both the pre- and power amp to deliver the full tube sound. Staccato'51 uses the TubeTone™ to add the growl when really diggin' in.
- 3 User memories: With the 3 user memories on Staccato'51 you can easily switch between, for example, your 4- and 5-string basses, or your Rickenbacker and Fender Jazz. Just plug in the bass and use the 'car radio' style Store & Recall controls to easily switch between presets for your chosen model.

- Flexible Tone Control: Straightforward controls like you know them from traditional amps. Voiced by Rocco Prestia to give you plenty of tweaking options to nail the perfect tone.
- Integrated Chromatic Tuner :Every bass player needs a tuner, so we built one in. Simply push the Mute button to get a full-resolution tuner 'light ring' to help you tune your instrument quickly and accurately. You can also use the RC4 for easy remote access to this functionality.
- Rehearsal input: Playing any instrument on its own can be a little dull, but everyone needs time to practice, which is why Staccato'51 has rehearsal inputs. This rear panel-mounted feature allows you to plug in your iPod, phone, computer or MP3 player via the supplied mini-jack to RCA cable adapter for easy practicing and playing along with recorded music.
